

WHO'S THINKING ABOUT LEAVING SAN FRANCISCO?

From our 2019 City Survey, we found out which residents think they're most likely to stay in San Francisco for the next three years, and which are more likely to move elsewhere. Explore the data and read the report at www.sfgov.org/citysurvey.

64%

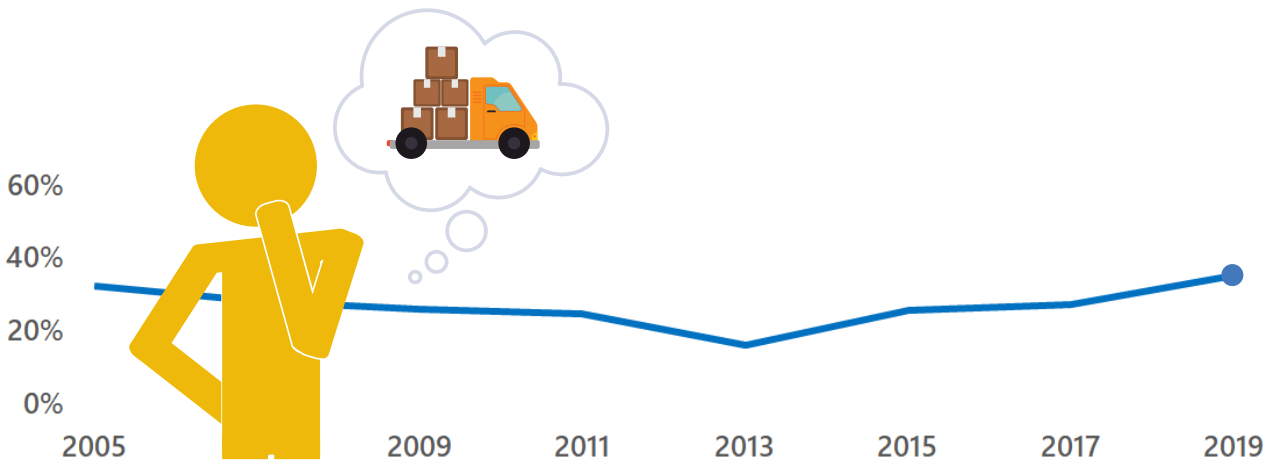

of respondents to the 2019 City Survey say they are "not at all" or "not too likely" to leave the City in the next three years.

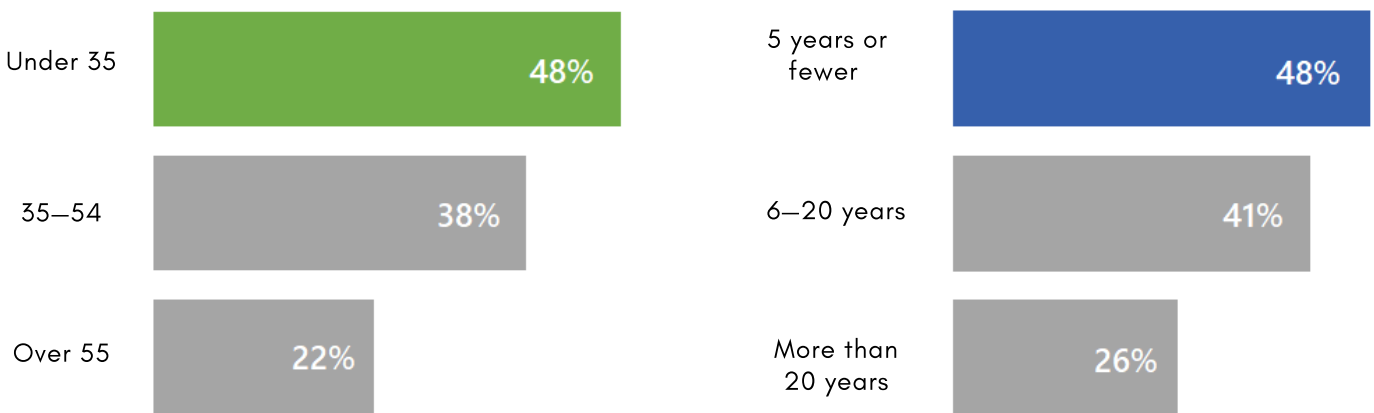

35%

of respondents to the 2019 City Survey say they are "somewhat" or "very likely" to leave the City in the next three years.

Attitudes about leaving the City have remained relatively consistent for the past 14 years.

Younger respondents and recent arrivals tend to report being "somewhat" or "very likely" to leave.

Renters are almost twice as likely to anticipate leaving as homeowners.

50% of those who left the City between 2013 and 2017 moved to another county within the Bay Area, and an additional 20% moved elsewhere in California.

Source: U.S. Census Bureau, 2013-2017 American Community Survey. For more information, see <https://census.gov/acs>.

