This Continuing Disclosure Annual Report is dated March 24, 2022. Except as provided under the Continuing Disclosure Certificates, the City expressly disclaims any obligation to provide an update of the Annual Report or a further update of any document or matter therein specifically referenced (including without limitation, the information under the caption "Recent Events").

II. Recent Events

Public Health Emergency – COVID-19

In recent years, public health authorities have warned of threats posed by outbreaks of disease and other public health threats. On February 11, 2020 the World Health Organization ("WHO") announced the official name for the outbreak of a new disease ("COVID-19"), an upper respiratory tract illness caused by infection by a transmissible, novel coronavirus. COVID-19 has since spread across the globe. The WHO has declared the COVID-19 outbreak to be a pandemic, and states of emergency have been declared by the Mayor of the City, the Governor of the State and the President of the United States.

From time to time since the onset of the pandemic, all counties in the Bay Area (including the City) have implemented and revised restrictions on mass gatherings and widespread closings or other limitations of the operations of government, commercial, educational, and other institutions. While significant portions of the population of the State of California (including the City) have been vaccinated, COVID-19 variants have resulted in increased infection rates and the imposition of certain restrictions on commercial and other activities. Although COVID-19 case rates had been relatively stable through October, November and early December 2021, case rates increased substantially in late December 2021 through early January 2022, including among the vaccinated. However, case rates have since declined from a peak of 3,161 new daily cases on January 5, 2022, to 56 new daily cases on March 9, 2022. As of March 9, 2022, the cumulative COVID-19 case count in San Francisco was 122,272 and the total death count was 825.

The spread of COVID-19 has had significant adverse health and financial impacts throughout the world, including the City. The impacts on the City's and the region's economy have been material and adverse. Existing and potential impacts to the City associated with the COVID-19 outbreak include, but are not limited to, increasing costs and challenges to the City's public health system, reductions in tourism and disruption of the regional and local economy, widespread business closures, worker migration out of the City due to permissive remote work policies and significantly higher levels of unemployment, as further discussed below.

In the City, numerous businesses have closed on a permanent basis and tourism-related economic activity declined substantially, with only a partial recovery to date. The unemployment rate in the City rose to a high of 13.0% in April 2020 from 2.2% in February 2020, before declining to 3.4% in January 2022. Some of the City's largest private employers instituted remote work policies that may continue for extended periods or indefinitely. A large-scale return to workplaces has yet to materialize, which is also reflected in continued low (though recently rising) transit ridership to workplace centers in the City.

The COVID-19 pandemic has negatively impacted values in certain segments of the real estate market in San Francisco. The City cannot predict how long the current economic conditions will last. While some public health restrictions have been loosened or eliminated in response to positive public health data on COVID-19, the COVID-19 outbreak is ongoing, and its duration and severity and economic effects are uncertain in many respects. The ultimate impact of COVID-19 on the operations and finances of the City is not fully known, and it may be some time before the full adverse impact of the COVID-19 outbreak is known.
